

This is a year when the old is brought together with the new. The world we know today is much different from that of our founding sister of 1884. A special history section is designed to show you some of those differences.

VIRGINIA PASSES NORMAL SCHOOL ACT

A system of public free schools for Virginia was established July 11, 1870, by the first Legislature to assemble after the War between the States. As these schools struggled year after year for a stable footing, it became more and more evident that they must be supplied with specially trained teachers before they could reach the desired efficiency. To make provision for this pressing need, the Legislature at its regular session in March, 1884, passed the following act establishing the Normal School:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia:

1. That there shall be established, as hereinafter provided, a normal school expressly for the training and education of white female teachers for public schools.

2. The school shall be under the supervision, management and government of W. H. Ruffner, J. L. M. Curry, John B. Minor, R. M. Manly, L. R. Holland, John L. Buchanan, L. A. Michie, F. N. Watkins, S. C. Armstrong, W. B. Taliaferro, George O. Conrad, W. E. Gaines, and W. W. Herbert, as a board of trustees. In case of vacancy, caused by death, resignation, or otherwise, the successor shall be appointed by the Governor. The Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be ex-officio a member of the board of trustees.

3. Said trustees shall, from time to time, make all needful rules and regulations for the good government and management of the school, to fix regulations for the number and compensation of teachers and others to be employed in the school, and to prescribe the preliminary examination and conditions on which students shall be received and instructed therein. They may appoint an executive committee, of whom the Superintendent shall be one, for the care, management and government of said school, under the rules and regulations prescribed as aforesaid. The trustees shall annually transmit to the Governor a full account of their proceedings under this act, together with a report of the progress, conditions and prospects of the school.

4. The trustees shall establish said school at Farmville, in the County of Prince Edward: provided said town shall cause to be conveyed to the State of Virginia, by proper deed, the property in said town known as the Farmville Female College; and if the said property is not so conveyed, then the said trustees shall establish said school in such other place as shall convey to the State suitable grounds and buildings for the purpose of said school.

5. Each city of five hundred inhabitants, and each county in the State, shall be entitled to one pupil, and one for each additional representative in the House of Delegates above one, who shall receive gratuitous instruction. The trustees shall prescribe rules for the selection of such pupils and for their examination, and shall require each pupil selected to give satisfactory evidence of an intention to teach in the public schools of the State for at least two years after leaving the said normal school.

6. The sum of five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated to defray the expense of establishing and continuing said school. The money shall be expended for that purpose under the direction of the trustees, upon whose requisition the Governor is hereby authorized to draw his warrant on the treasury.

7. There shall be appropriated annually, out of the treasury of the State, the sum of ten thousand dollars to pay incidental expenses, the salaries of officers and teachers, and to maintain the efficiency of the school, said sum to be paid out of the public free school fund: provided, however, that the Commonwealth will not in any instance be responsible for any debt contracted or expenditure made by the institution in excess of the appropriation herein made.

8. The Superintendent of Public Instruction shall render to the Second Auditor an annual account of the expenditures under this act.

It was not until 1886, however, that the institution was incorporated by the Legislature, under the name of the State Female Normal School.

That Farmville secured the school was owing to the fact that the town offered to give to the State a building formerly used as a girls' school, and this offer was warmly supported by such influential men as Dr. W. H. Ruffner, Dr. James Nelson, then pastor of the Baptist Church at Farmville, and Dr. W. H. H. Thackston, at that time mayor of Farmville and most anxious to promote its interests.

The first meeting of the Board of Trustees was held in Richmond, April 9, 1884, and organized by the election of Dr. J. L. M. Curry president, Dr. J. L. Buchanan vice-president, and Judge F. N. Watkins secretary and treasurer.

The Board was confronted by a serious difficulty at the outset in the shape of the seventh section of the law establishing the school. This provided that the money set apart for the support of the school should be taken from the public free school funds. The question was at once raised as to its constitutionality. It was the opinion of the Attorney-General, and, later, the decision of the Court of Appeals, that the seventh section was "unconstitutional and void" in so far as it attempted to divert the public school funds.

The Board of Trustees thus found itself without funds for the purposed work, until an extra session of the Legislature amended the section, August 23, 1884, by passing a law requiring that the ten thousand dollars be paid out of the treasury of the State, "which was just what it should have done at first."

At the first meeting of the Board, Dr. W. H. Ruffner was unanimously chosen president. At the same meeting a committee composed of Dr. Ruffner, Dr. Curry, and Dr. Buchanan, was appointed to formulate a plan of organization of the school. The committee made its report June 10, 1884, but because of the delay in getting the funds to run the school, the report was not adopted until September 17, 1884. The school was then ordered to be opened October 30th, following, although, to quote Dr. Ruffner's words, all they had was "a principal, an appropriation, a rough scheme, and an old academy building,—not a teacher, nor a book, nor a piece of apparatus or furniture."

The first and most difficult step was to secure teachers, for teachers in a normal school should be specially trained for their work, and the normal school idea was distinctly new in Virginia, though old in some other states. Dr. Ruffner, by his long connection, as Superintendent of Public Instruction, with the public free school system, was thoroughly familiar with the needs of the teachers, and so best fitted to meet them. The Board wisely allowed him great latitude in the organization of his faculty, and authorized him to seek in the North and East three persons familiar with the organization and methods peculiar to normal schools. His choice fell upon Miss Celest E. Bush, of Connecticut, for vice-principal; Miss Clara M. Brimblecom, of Boston, for vocal music, and Miss Lillian A. Lee, of Connecticut, for drawing and mathematics. To this number were added Miss Pauline Gash, of North Carolina, teacher of English, and Mrs. Clara Bartkowska, of Richmond, to take charge of the preparatory school. So the Normal School was opened promptly at the appointed time, in spite of the very discouraging outlook six weeks before. During the first year Mr. Beverly H. Robertson was added to the faculty as teacher of science, Latin, and algebra, and Miss Belle Johnson as teacher of piano music. The results of this first session's work were one hundred ten students, of whom forty-four were accommodated in the building, and three graduates.

To Dr. W. H. Ruffner and Dr. J. L. M. Curry undoubtedly belongs the credit of the normal school idea in Virginia, and the State was indeed fortunate in securing the services of two such able men to guide the new undertaking.

Dr. Ruffner had contributed most valuable aid to education in Virginia by his masterly work as State Superintendent of Public Instruction. He knew better than any one else at that time, perhaps, what it requires to make a real teacher, and very early in his work realized that the common schools could not become the important factors in the uplift of the people that they should be until they were supplied with specially trained teachers.

Dr. Curry was already distinguished as a statesman, diplomat, educator, and author, and was especially interested in educational conditions in the South, his motto being, "Education for all." As agent of the Peabody Fund, he gave material financial aid to the undertaking, adding what was of even higher value, the great strength of his mind and character in shaping and supporting the new scheme. It was he that framed the original bill introduced into the Legislature for the establishment of the institution, and he was the first president of the Board of Trustees. He was more than once heard to say that he wished for no higher eulogy than to be called "Father of the State Normal School of Virginia."

It is an interesting fact, though generally unknown, that Dr. Ruffner and Dr. Curry did not wish the benefits of the school confined to girls, and that they were also dissatisfied and disappointed with the mere pittance set aside for its support. A paragraph for the Virginia School Reports for 1884, as well as their own words to others, show their thoughts:

"It is due to the promoters of this enterprise to state that the original bill, as drafted by the Hon. J. L. M. Curry and presented to the Legislature for its sanction, provided for a normal school in the broadest sense of the term, and had no purpose of restricting its benefits to the 'females' only of the State; but after the wisdom of the Legislature had done with the bill its progenitor was hardly able to recognize it; but we are deeply thankful for even the little that was done, and hope, by improving that, to make good our claims for more."

The First Graduating Class, June, 1885

Annie Lydia Blanton was the first honor graduate of the first graduating class of the State Normal School in June, 1885. For several years following, she was an assistant in the practice school of the Normal School. In August, 1891, she was married to Hon. Fermor Barrett, of Washington, Ga. She died in Toccoa, Ga. December 31, 1908, survived by her husband and four children.

*Lulu M. Duncan, after graduating, taught in the public schools of Virginia for eighteen years, with the exception of one year spent at Alderson, W. Va., and one at Rockbridge, Fla. In 1903 she was married to Mr. John M. Moir, of Kinston, N. C., where she now lives, devoting herself to making a happy home for her husband and three-year-old son.

Lulu O. Philips, in September following her graduation, entered the Richmond High and Normal School as a teacher, remaining until the spring of 1904, when she resigned for a much needed rest and change of work. After giving her attention to other work for three years, in September, 1907, she became teacher of English Language and Literature in Shenandoah College at Reliance, where she is at present.

*A photograph of Miss Duncan could not be secured.

Causes Of Failure

Knowing things, but not being able to tell them.

Excessive fondness for novel reading.

Sometimes natural-born laziness, but never, never, lack of sense!

Scientific study of the genus homo, to the exclusion of all else.

Taking the "rest cure" in the infirmary too often and too long

The spitefulness of teachers who just wouldn't pass you, anyhow, even if you did good work.

An ordinary girl's trying to do as much as two extraordinary girls should undertake.

Inability of the teachers to understand your thoughts.

Being so terribly afraid of a teacher that it scares you to death to recite.

Studying certain teachers more than the subjects taught.

Spending too much time before the mirror preparing for the parlor branches of study.

The singular forgetfulness of teachers who think that you have nobody else's work to do but theirs.

"Spooning" with our "cases"

The injustice of the faculty in not being disposed to excuse you when you wish to gaze out of the window and think the "long,

long, thoughts of youth," rather than those of geometry,
composition, or physics.

The deplorable failure of the faculty to appreciate the real value of the promenade course in geology, which takes intense interest in the paving stones of Farmville.

To Joan Of Arc Or Youth

With head thrown back
And eyes strained upward but ever forward,
Onward she gallops
Into the future.
Standing in her saddle,
With eyes of vision and of truth
She views the distant land,
And fearlessly moves onward to the goal ahead.
Horse's feet planted firmly on the ground,
Onward she gallops.

With tears of pity
She views the slain
Upon the battle ground.
(How can she whose love and faith
Forever call,
How can she see and still move on?)
Weeping with those who weep,
Ever weeping,
Onward she gallops
In sympathy.
Gallop on, O gentle Joan, gallop on!

Soul of love,
Thy faith in friends
Hath kept thy spirit
Ever living in the heart of youth;
Has permeated mind and hart,
Till we cluster 'round thy figure,
Kneeling at thy side,
Seeking guidance from thy gentle hand,
Drinking deep the inspiration
From thine upward lifted eyes.
Gallop on, O happy Joan, gallop on,
While we gather 'round thy statue,
Clasping hands in friendship's lasting tie,
And we pledge ourselves to follow—
Where thou leadest we will follow—
Gallop on, O happy Joan, gallop on!
